SWIPES FIGHT AT LIBERTY FAIR

Rice Hines Shoots at Will Carter, Who Turns Tables by Carving Hines With Knife.

BOTH PARTIES ARE IN JAIL

Is the Climax of a Long Period of Unfriendliness—Hines is Seriously Injured.

The tremendous throng that attended the Liberty fair yesterday witnessed with horror a characteristic Kentucky horse swipe fight, which was participated in by Rice Hines and Will Carter of this city. Hines has been traveling with Jerome, a horse which is the property of Bruce Graham and John K. Gowdy. Carter is an employee of William Dagler, who conducts the Posey Stock farm. It seems as if both of the parties have not been the best of friends with each other of late, and that a quarrel has been brewing for some time.

It is alleged that Carter had been drinking too much liquor for a gentleman to indulge in, and for that reason he was more "pesteriferous" than ever. Hines alleges that he had been tormenting him all day and had even kept him from eating dinner. It was on the track in the afternoon that events came to a climax, when Carter made a stinging remark to Hines before several other race horse employees. This was more than Hines could go, and immediately he pulled a revolver and fired, the shot going wild.

Fear immediately overcame Hines after he had fired and he started away on the run. As he was passing out of the entry gate to the race track, he tripped over a wire and fell to the ground. Carter caught up with him before he could arise and immediately started some Cudahy and Swift tactics with a knife, but before he had succeeded in killing Hines interference was made.

Both parties were arrested and taken to the Union county jail. Hines' wounds are of a very serious nature and fatality is probable. He was carved all over, the wounds not being confined to any one particular portion of the body. It was learned at noon today that the injured man was improved, but that his condition is still serious. Both will remain in the Union county jail for trial—the charge of which has not been made yet—unless bond is furnished them. Hines and Carter are both well known in the colored circles of this city.

UNION SERVICES SUNDAY

They Will be Held at First Presbyterian Church.

The union services of the churches of the city will be held next Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. E. C. Myers of the first Baptist church was to have preached the sermon, but his hay-fever has compelled him to leave the city for a short vacation. The Rev. J. W. Turner, of St. Paul's M. E. church will fill the pulpit for him.

WILL RUN SPECIAL.

The general superintendent of the Big Four has arranged for a special train to be run from Greensburg on Thursday of the fair next week. The train will leave Greensburg at eight o'clock in the morning and will stop at Sandusky, Williamstown and Milroy.

THE WEATHER.

EXODUS TO THE LOGAN REUNION

Many go From Here to Attend the Gathering of Their Family Today in Indianapolis.

WILL BE HELD AT BROOKSIDE

In the proximity of fifty Rush county people went to Indianapolis this morning to attend the Logan reunion, which was held at Brookside park. This reunion is always one of the largest annual reunions, for people go to it from practically every section of the State. The feature of the reunion is the unique entertainment furnished every year by some member of the family, the nature of which is held "dark" until the afternoon on which it is given. Those who went from this county were Mr. and Mrs. Jonas Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Ora Logan, all of Noble township; Ross and Tom Logan of Union township; Warder Logan and family; Ed Logan and family and Tom Logan and family, all of whom are from Richland township; Miss Mary Logan, who is a missionary to India, and well known here, will be present at the reunion.

ASKS THAT IT BE NOT ACCEPTED

Robert F. Powell Files Exceptions to Report of Margaret E. Glendenning Guardian of Amelia T. Powell.

FOUR REASONS FOR ACTION

Robert F. Powell, as administrator of the estate of Amelia J. Powell, a person of unsound mind, has filed exception to the final report of Margaret E. Glendenning, who was appointed as guardian of the estate, through his attorneys, Megee & Kiplinger. He first alleges that her charges as guardian, of $700 is excessive by the amount of $600. Second he sets forth the fact that the item of $25.97 in cash was never authorized by him as administrator. Third that $100 attorney fees charged to the estate is excessive by $75. Fourth that she represents the personal property as being $403.23, when he believes it to be over $1000 and knows that one note of $732 has been omitted, on which he knows there is a credit of $90. For these reasons he asks of the court that the final report shall not be accepted and that the property be delivered to him as administrator of the estate.

Kokomo Tribune: Miss Louise McEntee whose condition with typhoid fever has been critical, is somewhat improved.

ST. PAUL MAN IS AGAIN HONORED

John L. Jackson Re-elected President of Indiana Branch of National League of Postmasters.

CAME WITHOUT SOLICITATION

An Attempt Will be Made to Get Next National Meeting in This State.

John L. Jackson, of St. Paul, is to continue as president of the Indiana branch of the National League of Postmasters of the United States, which held its sixth annual meeting in the United States circuit court room at Indianapolis on Wednesday and Thursday, as he was re-elected without opposition. Mr. Jackson has made the organization a most efficient executive officer and the demand that he retain the position for another year was unanimous. The organization is composed of postmasters of the third and fourth class offices.

The convention closed its two-day session at the Federal building, electing delegates to represent the State league at the annual meeting of the national league held in Chattanooga this year. The delegates are: President Jackson, Secretary Bush, Mrs. Morgan, F. W. Kritz and H. M. Dixon.

No definite date for the next annual convention was set, but as there seems to be a certainty of the national convention going to Indianapolis in 1911 it was decided to hold the State meeting on the day before the opening of the national meeting in Indianapolis. The five delegates were instructed to work for Indianapolis as the seat of the convention in 1911 and plans were informally discussed to that end.

The response to the address of welcome, made by the mayor of Indianapolis, was made by the president of the league, who remarked in passing that he would not be surprised some day to see Mayor Shank filling the position of postmaster. In his annual address Mr. Jackson pointed out that the Indiana league had a membership of 473, a gain of 264 members during the year. He touched on the educational advantages of the league, and said that the way to secure better working conditions and better service was to work for better postmasters, and the way to do this was to work for the building up of the league, so that instruction might be given, errors noted, and the members made efficient generally. He said that the members of the league realized that when they sought more knowledge of postal affairs they were helping themselves as well as the department.

Mr. Jackson also suggested that it would be better to change the method of appointing rural carriers, so that the postmaster out of whose office the rural carrier worked would have authority to suggest for appointment any of the three men who stood highest on the eligible list.

HAVE BEGUN STONE WORK.

The stone work has been begun on the Rushville National bank and Cutler Bros. buildings at the corner of Second and Main streets. It is the general opinion that both buildings will add materially to the appearance of the business district of Rushville.

The funeral services of Lewis J. Newhouse will be held tomorrow afternoon at the residence in North Sexton street at two o'clock. The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Thomas, assisted by the Rev. R. W. Abberley. Friends may view the body tomorrow morning until twelve o'clock.

BANQUET TOAST LIST GIVEN OUT

First Annual High School Alumni Association Event Promises to be a Brilliant One.

FIRST WEDNESDAY IN SEPT.

Ladies Aid Society of the Christian Church to Serve Banquet—Dr. J. C. Sexton, Toastmaster.

The first annual meeting and banquet of the Alumni Association of the Rushville high school, which will be held in the basement of the Main Street Christian church one week from next Wednesday evening at seven o'clock, promises to be one of the most entertaining and enjoyable events which has taken place recently. All arrangements have been practically perfected and local alumni are looking forward to a successful launching of the association. It is believed that the first banquet will go off with vim and enthusiasm which will insure the permanency of the affair for years to come.

The banquet will be served by the Ladies Aid Society of the Christian church which is sufficient to anyone who has ever attended a meal furnished by the church women. They have been serving banquets for the Men's Brotherhood for several seasons and have become past masters in the art. The menu is expected to be the most inviting thing about the whole affair.

But the menu can hardly vie with the list of toasts which has been arranged. Dr. J. C. Sexton, heads the list as toastmaster. The local physician needs no introduction to Rushville people as he has already gained an enviable reputation for presiding at the head of the banquet tables. The doctor is a natural wit and there is some promise of his having some rare jokes, probably at the expense of the other people on the program, for toasts. Dr. Sexton has given toasts at numerous banquets in the past few years where he has always upheld his reputation as a delightful after-dinner talker.

Ward Hackleman, '09, will read the list with his subject, "The College Freshman." Mr. Hackleman was a Freshman in Wabash College at Crawfordsville last year and there gained some knowledge of what a Freshman is and what he really thinks he is. And it is probable that he will touch on the sad disappointment which the high school Senior world in his grasp, experiences when he becomes a first-year student.

Judge Will Sparks will follow with a toast on the subject, "Legal Rights of an 'In-Law.'" Although Judge Sparks is a graduate from the Carthage high school, he is entitled to the privilege of the banquet, due to the fact that his wife is a graduate here. Judge Sparks has studied law, has practiced law and is now interpreting law but that does not keep him from touching on his subject.

Mrs. Jessie Spann Gary '92 will talk on the subject "Psychological Observations." Mrs. Gary taught Ralph Stiffler, '07, is now preparing of years, where her work was much appreciated. The banquet committee felt that she could do justice to her topic.

Ralph Stiffler, '07, is now preparing a "line of talk" on "The Co-Ed Here," which subject was assigned to him and about which it is thought that he can tell more than the ordinary person. He played end with the Butler college football team and with his diving tactics and daring feats probably made many feminine hearts flutter.

John H. Kiplinger, '09, will give a toast on "The It." He is the only graduate in the list who selected his own subject and those in touch with the situation are at a loss to know just why he chose that particular one. The quality or nature of it will remain a mystery.

Miss Georgia Wyatt, '08, will talk on "A High School Romance." The toast will no doubt attract many old "grads" to the banquet, due to the fact that so many of the topics sound so mysterious. Her subject was assigned.

Dr. V. W. Tevis will close the evening's flow of oratory with a toast on "Antiquities." His remarks are expected to be a very fitting ending for the occasion as Dr. Tevis has been pronounced one of the best ministers who ever graced a pulpit in Rushville.

ACCOUNTING BOARD MAKES NEW RULING

Real Estate Can Not Be Sold For Taxes Until Personal Property Has Been Exhausted.

MAKE RULING ON ROAD TAX

Real estate can not be sold at the order of county officials to pay delinquent taxes on personal property until after the personal property has been exhausted is the phase which is now on the law by the state board of accounts. Although there have been but few instances where such has been done yet the ruling of the State board of accounts is of importance because county officials have always been perplexed in the action to pursue in these cases.

Another question on which the State board made a ruling yesterday at the state auditors association at Indianapolis was one the road tax. John Boltz of the State board said: "It is violation of the law for a person employed by the auditor to work out the road tax to do so and then claim the road tax money from the county. He should not be paid. The road supervisors should make out their road tax receipts and leave them in the books and then turn the books over to the county treasurer. In this way possible destruction of the receipts would be avoided."

There has been quite a little talk among high school students about organizing a track team next spring, and competing in the State high school track meet, where they should make an excellent showing.

THE COLONEL GROWS BOLDER

T. R. Talks Right From the Shoulder.

SQUARE DEAL FOR EVERY MAN

Reiterating This Particular Article of His Creed, Colonel Roosevelt Has Rear-Platform Crowds With Him on His Western Tour—Today He Is Making Himself Heard in a Number of Small Towns in Iowa.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Mr. Roosevelt topped off a whirlwind day yesterday with a short speech at the Newspaper Club of Chicago last night. The colonel enjoyed meeting the men who write about him, and he said so. At 10 o'clock the Roosevelt special pulled out of town. Today stops are being made at a number of small cities in Iowa. Tomorrow the colonel is due at Cheyenne for the real big doings.

Moving swiftly into the heart of the west, Mr. Roosevelt has grown bold. The crowds that thronged the railroad stations all along the line in the states of New York, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois surprised even the colonel himself by their genuine enthusiasm and interest in what he said.

Mr. Roosevelt could not resist the temptation to deliver a back-hand swat at Governor Harmon of Ohio. The colonel aroused a great crowd in the Union station at Cleveland by his reference to the car strike at Columbus a few weeks ago, when the mob defied the police. He intimated that Governor Harmon did not do his duty. He deplored the incident as an affront to decency, and he declared that the public official who fails to quell the mob is as much of a criminal as the corrupt member of a corporation, which is the limit.

Mr. Roosevelt clenched his fist, pounded the air and clicked his jaws as he told folks in the various states what he will do, whenever he has power. He said he will keep order and insist upon justice from the rich man. A good many persons got the impression that T. R. spoke as though he were going to have power in the future, for he used that tense most all the time. His talks, however, so far as 1912 is concerned, have not more than lightly suggested that he is moving right ahead on his own hook.

The colonel has not got far enough on his trip yet to allow an accurate estimation of his popularity in the west. Of course the crowds yelled and roared for Teddy and said nice things right to the colonel's face, but they did not go wild. As the train would draw from the various stations you could catch faint booms for "Our next president," but nothing stronger of that nature was forthcoming. Still, the colonel liked it. They like him. Politicians swarmed up to the colonel's private car. Politicians mostly of minor importance, who were seeking endorsements for themselves or their constituents were they.

Mr. Roosevelt said that he had returned to the United States because the lions in Africa had failed to do their duty. His purpose, he said, is to make conditions in this country a little fairer and a little more equitable than they had been.

"There are two things to remark," continued the colonel. "In the first place, always insist upon absolute honesty, and in the second place insist on obedience of the law. Now I stand for the poor man until he does something that is wrong. I will not stand for any man if he is wrong, rich or poor. If the rich man strives to use his wealth to destroy others, I will clinch him if I can."

The crowd screamed with delight, but Mr. Roosevelt waved for silence. "Wait," he roared, "wait and see if you'll cheer the other side. If the poor man is crooked or commits violence, I will stand behind the forces of order every time."

"These are the articles of my creed—a square deal for every man, justice for every man, rich or poor. If there is disorder all reform must stop until order is restored."

The colonel was beating the atmosphere with great vigor at this point. He was all worked up. "I shall insist upon honesty if it breaks up the best business of the land," he cried, "and I shall insist upon order under all conditions. Remember that the public official who does not maintain order and fails to put down the mob is quite as criminal as any corrupt man who conducts a great corporation that becomes corrupt."

There was silence in the crowd. They hung on every word. "I stand for decent citizenship," Mr. Roosevelt roared. "I am against the corporation when it does wrong, and I am against the mob when it resorts to violence. And whenever I have power I will keep order on the one hand and will insist upon justice from the rich man and the corporation on the other. I will make the corporation come to time just as I will make the mob."

A few conservatives who had been hanging around on the outskirts of the crowd smiled as they caught the colonel's utterance. His remark about breaking up the best business in the land if honesty does not prevail, appeared to amuse them. One of them wondered what authority Mr. Roosevelt holds that will allow him to do that now.

COLLISION VICTIMS WERE INCINERATED

Eight Pullman Passengers Burned to Death.

Flint, Mich., Aug. 26.—In a rear-end collision between passenger trains, both eastbound, on the Grand Trunk railway, two miles east of Durand, eight persons are known to have been killed, three were probably fatally injured and five were seriously hurt.

Train No. 14 stopped to repair a defective brake, when No. 4 crashed into the sleeper on the standing train. The engine of No. 4 plowed half way through the sleeper, crushing to death some of the sleeping passengers. The fire box of the engine of No. 4 then dropped out and the death coach in a few minutes was blazing from end to end.

As the flames ate their way through the splintered timbers of the coach, the cries of the injured ceased and the terrible heat deterred the passengers of the undamaged cars and the farmers, who had hurried from their homes to assist in the work of rescue.

The known dead: Mrs. E. M. Gulpin, Chicago; James McBean, Chicago letter carrier; Mrs. Squires, residence not reported, and her son, ten years of age; Mrs. Alma Woodward, who was going to Port Huron, Mich.; nurse from St. John's hospital, Halifax, accompanying Mrs. Woodward.

The Coroner's Finding.
Corydon, Ind., Aug. 26.—Coroner H. H. Wise and Drs. William Daniels and Anzie Weaver held a post-mortem examination upon the body of Andrew Ebert, who died at the hospital for the insane at Evansville and found that he came to his death from a blow upon the right temple. The authorities at the asylum certified that he died of dysentery.

Taft Sends Regrets.
Indianapolis, Aug. 26.—Henry Riesenberger of this city, chairman of the Indiana conservation commission, has received a letter from Charles D. Norton, secretary to President Taft, stating that the president will not visit Indianapolis this year.

A falling off in the exports of natural products, an increased exportation of manufactures, and an increased importation of manufacturers' materials are the principal characteristics of a statement of foreign commerce of the United States covering the seven months ending July 31, just issued by the bureau of statistics.

BELIEVED THAT WORST IS OVER

Western Forest Fires Beginning to Subside.

MORE THAN TWO HUNDRED DEAD

Death List Compiled at Spokane Shows Fearful Mortality Attending Raging Fires Which Have Devastated Large Sections of the Northwest—This List May Grow When All Reports Are In.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 26.—Following is a revised tabulation of the dead in the forest fires of the northwest: United States fire fighters in and near Idaho, 86; Montana deaths, 13; at Newport, Wash., 3; Wallace, Idaho, 4; near Avery, Idaho, probably settlers, 47; Mullan, Idaho, 2; Spokane, 1; on Big creek, Idaho, 47.

This gives a total of 203 dead, but it is probable that some of these listed by places may duplicate those listed as fire fighters, but as many are still missing, the dead will probably total more than 200 when the record is completed.

The fires are not so violent today, and it is believed that the worst is over.

WOMEN IN TROUBLE

Wealthy Sisters Charged With Shoplifting in a Brooklyn Store.

New York, Aug. 26.—Three sisters of a wealthy Brooklyn family and said to be prominent socially were arraigned before Magistrate Dooley in the Butler Street court, Brooklyn, on a charge of shoplifting. The prisoners said they were Ella and Mabel Brown, twenty-one and twenty-two years old, respectively, of 59 Quincy street, and Mrs. Lucille A. Cook, thirty years old, of 144 Rochester street. The complainant against them, a Brooklyn department store detective, told the magistrate that after she had caught the sisters filling their pockets with small pieces of plated jewelry, one had offered a bribe of $2,000 and another a bribe of $500 if no charge would be made against them. The case was continued.

CAUGHT AT BUFFALO

Alleged Jewelry Thief Who Worked Old Game at Summer Hotel.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Aug. 26.—Mrs. Frank P. Rambo of Philadelphia, whose jewelry, valued at $35,000, was recently stolen from one of the Delaware Gap hotels, may be restored through the capture of William McDermott in Buffalo, charged with being the thief. The police here, who have been looking for him, have received word that he has been caught. McDermott, it is alleged, registered at the same hotel as the Rambo and under the name of Dr. E. E. Dolly of Philadelphia. He made friends with Rambo and his wife, and last Friday, it is charged, got into their room when they were out and got away with the jewelry, most of it being diamond rings and pendants.

Chicago was decided on as the place for the next convention of the International Hotel Stewards' association.

Berry Vines Grow Two Crops This Year

George B. Walton, who conducts a commission establishment at 207 East Maryland street, has been handling fruits and vegetables for the last thirty years, but this summer is the first time he has ever observed the production of two crops of strawberries from the same vines, says the Indianapolis Star. Since last Thursday his house has had a total consignment of about forty crates of berries, the Haverland variety, and from the same field last June a big crop was gathered. Wm. Stumblers and Adam Hanks, fruit growers, living near Floyds Knob, Ind., are owners of the patch from which the double crop came. The berries are well formed and from information received here last night the second crop will last for several days yet. The berries are quoted at a handsome price because of the fact that they are about the only ones on the market.

Weed Seed Collections

The Agricultural Extension Department of Purdue has prepared a limited number of collections of common weed seeds. These collections embrace the more commonly occurring weed seed impurities in commercial clovers and grass seed impurities which farmers and school children should know. There are 35 different kinds of weed seeds represented. The collection is 5x8 inches, a very convenient size and weighs but 10 ounces. It is so constructed that the seeds can be readily studied with or without a magnifying glass. Accompanying each kind of seed in the collection is its common name. On the back of the collection are a number of useful points on high grade seed, an explanation of how purity tests of commercial seeds can be made at home, or in the school room, an explanation of how a reliable germination test can be made by school children or by the farmer himself and also the names, numbers and sources of many available bulletins on the subject of weeds and weed seeds.

In connection with nature study and elementary agriculture in schools, this weed seed collection is of much value to teachers and pupils, and ought to be found in all schools of the state. It may be had by sending 35 cents to the Agricultural Extension Department experiment station, Lafayette, Ind. The amount is for putting up the collection and mailing it.

Books on Nature Study

The Agricultural Extension Department of Purdue has secured from the leading publishers of agricultural and nature study text books, copies of the best books on these subjects; books suitable for the use of teachers and pupils in schools, for the home library, for the guidance and information of farmers and looking toward the improvement of rural conditions generally.

The aim has been to procure books that are filled with scientific and technical terms, but that set forth teachings of nature and principals and practices of agriculture in terms easily comprehended by everyone.

These books have been thoroughly examined and the Extension Department is in a position to recommend to all who are interested in this class of literature, good books on any phase of agriculture or nature study.

The library is now being shown to the public at a number of fall fairs. Later it will be exhibited in the Purdue Building at the State Fair and at farmers' short courses to be held in a number of the leading towns of the State. This is done in order to allow farmers, teachers, and others to examine these books for themselves and to make a selection. All who are interested in good agricultural literature are invited to see our traveling library or to correspond with this Department on the subject. No school library, teacher's private library or farmer's home library is complete without a number of good reference books on agriculture and the various objects in nature such as weeds, birds, animals and insects, all of which affect farmers very directly. Sometimes to his advantage and sometimes to his decided disadvantage.

Lesson IX.—Third Quarter, For
Aug. 28, 1910.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Matt. xxi, 1-17.
Memory Verses, 10, 11—Golden Text,
Matt. xxi, 9—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

According to the harmony of the gospels, we have now come to the events of the second day in the last week, the passion week. The anointing by Mary at Bethany has taken place, although we shall not come to it in our studies till some time in October. It is thought by some that this public entry to Jerusalem occurred on the Sunday preceding Easter, generally known as Palm Sunday.

The time had come for another Scripture to be fulfilled which had been written about 500 years before: "Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem; behold, thy King cometh unto thee; He is just and having salvation; lowly and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass" (Zech. ix, 9).

Jesus, knowing all things, sent two of his disciples, unnamed, into the village over against them, that they might find the ass and the colt and bring them to Him. They went and found even as he had said unto them, and, saying what they had been told by Jesus to say to the owners of the animals, they brought them to Him. The account of this is found more or less fully in each of the four gospels. How marvelous that hundreds of years before it occurred it was all foreseen and written down! But "known unto God are all His works from the beginning of the world" (Acts xv, 18). That this was a colt whereon never man sat suggests the sepulcher wherein never man before was laid (Luke xxiii, 53) and the womb from which He was the first-born. His power over creatures is seen in the submission to Him of this untamed ass' colt. Consider the birds which fed Elijah, the lions in Daniel's den, the little fish which brought the piece of money, the dominion over all creatures given to Adam and the time of the coming kingdom when the wolf, the leopard and the lion shall be to a little child as the lamb, the kid and the calf (Isa. xi, 6). The ass tied where two ways met is suggestive of the place where every sinner is found. The adoration of the disciples and the multitude as they spread their garments and branches from trees in the way and cried, "Hosanna to the Son of David; blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord; hosanna in the highest," was not a welcome from the officials of the nation, but largely the cry of the unthinking multitude, who soon changed it to "crucify Him." The time draws near when He shall come again, and then Israel shall truly say: "Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord." "Lo, this is our God; we have waited for Him, and He will save us" (Matt. xxiii, 39; Isa. xxv, 9). In Luke xix, 41-44, we read that when He was come near He beheld the city and wept over it, as He foretold its doom, because they knew not the things which belonged to their peace. How often He has had to say to those whom He longed to bless, "Ye would not" (Isa. xxviii, 12; xxx, 15; Matt. xxiii, 37; John v, 40). Hear the cry of His heart in Ps. lxxxi, 10-16: "Open thy mouth wide, and I will fill it. But My people would not hearken to My voice, and Israel would none of Me. * * * Oh, that My people had hearkened unto me and Israel had walked in my ways." The city was moved and cried, "Who is this?" It was a question oft asked by His enemies (Luke v, 21; vii, 49; ix, 9). It is the old question of Isa. lxiii, 1; Jer. xxx, 21. It is the great question, the only question, never "Who am I?" but always "Who is He?" "What can He do?" And so He asks us: "Believe ye that I am able?" "Whom say ye that I am?"

Jesus, having entered the city, went into the temple and for the second time in his ministry he cleansed it and said that instead of a house of prayer they had made it a den of thieves. Now, while the temple was in no sense typical of a church building, for both tabernacle and temple were quite unique, being each designed by God for a special purpose, that He might dwell in the midst of Israel, we do well to see that our church buildings dedicated to the worship of God are kept wholly for that purpose and not in any sense given up to amusement or entertainment. Both tabernacle and temple were typical of Jesus Christ Himself (John ii, 19; Hab. viii, 2), in whom God dwelt as in no other, but when He is received by us we become His temples, not our own, bought with a price, and it is our privilege to consider ourselves as wholly set apart for Himself, no longer conformed to this world, a peculiar people, zealous of good works (I Cor. iii, 16, 17; Ps. iv, 3; Rom. xii, 1, 2; Tit. ii, 14). The chief priests and scribes hated Him more and more and would have forbidden even the children to sing hosanna to Him, but He quoted from the Eighth Psalm, where He is spoken of as having dominion over all things and in which the children praise Him. The fig tree which should have borne fruit, as by its profession of leaves it indicated the probability of such, but was cursed by Him till the end of the age, was a symbol of the nation on which He found nothing but leaves. In Joel i, 7, He speaks of Israel as "My vine, My fig tree."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week
Beginning Aug. 28, 1910.

Topic.—The progress of Christ's kingdom this year in Asia.—Matt. xiii, 31-33. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

The two parables of Christ before us are most appropriate to the subject of the advancement of the gospel in Asia in the past year. In these parables the kingdom of heaven is likened to the smallest of seeds, the mustard seed, which gradually grew until it became a great and useful tree. In the second parable the kingdom is likened unto a lump of leaven, which, put into three measures of meal (a little more than a pint), leavened the entire lump. This has been the history of the gospel in Asia from the earliest times. It began in the day of small things and has spread abroad throughout the entire great continent.

The earliest ages of Christianity were spent in Asia. Christ was born there, and from Antioch, in Syria, His kingdom spread to the gentiles beyond Asia. Christ himself was never outside the continent of Asia. He was born in Bethlehem of Judea, lived the most of His life of thirty-three years in Palestine, a part of Asia, and only once, according to the record, was He beyond the borders of Palestine. This was the occasion of His visit to Tyre and Sidon, Asiatic strips of land bordering on the Great, or Mediterranean, sea.

The apostles' work was also in the same land. John was at Ephesus. Philip carried the gospel to Arabia and is also supposed to have gone as far east as India.

In the modern great efforts to evangelize the world Asia has been the scene of great efforts. From earliest times many Christians remained, some attached to the Greek church and thousands of Armenians, who are now constantly attacked and slaughtered by the Mohammedans, especially the Kurds, a very low and fanatical class of Turks. Where once pure and undefiled Christian religion prevailed at the present time there is much opposition by the Turks, who feel a bitter hatred against Christianity, although the principles of the Turks are based upon and largely received from the Old Testament teachings.

To attempt even a brief review of one year's work in Asia is impossible. The only thing that can possibly be done is to report "progress." In China, Japan, India and even in Korea, with its political troubles, and especially in Persia and Turkey, great progress is being made. Direct Christian work is successfully being prosecuted. The principles of Christian nations are being introduced. Persia has a constitutional government as well as Turkey, where victory has been won by the Young Turks. China has introduced the English language into the public schools, and the young Chinese under the name of "Nationalists" are demanding a constitutional government. Russia, darker than Africa in many senses, has its duma, which is constantly gaining in power. Christian colleges are advancing. Revivals are leading to thousands of conversions. Medical missions are performing a great work everywhere. Native workers are increasing in large numbers, which is of tremendous importance. Literature is being scattered everywhere and deeply studied. The day dawns; the darkness disappears. Soon the land in which the Christ Child was born and the angels heralded His coming will once more be flooded with the "light of the day." Let us give, labor and pray that these results may soon be accomplished.

OSCAR REES AND FAMILY.

Obituary.

Paul Lemoyne, son of Oscar H. and Lena H. Rees, was born Sept. 13, 1909.

A little less than a year ago this little child came to gladden the hearts of these parents and to be the joy of this family.

Like a beautiful rosebud each day saw his life unfolding and growing into the beauty of innocent babyhood.

One day his baby prattle ceased and his little body became fevered the little playthings were forgotten and the word passed around that "baby Paul is sick." After three weeks of suffering he was called away from his home on earth to the heavenly home above to await with little Howard, the coming of his loved ones.

He was a very attractive child and won the hearts of all who came to know him. He will be missed by the little sister and brothers who loved him so much.

This family received him as a gift from God and now give him back to the Heavenly Father's care and in their prayers of faith gently say: "The will of the Lord be done."

"The tallest lilies droop at evenside. The sweetest roses fall from off the stem."

The rarest things on earth cannot abide And we, too, are passing away like them."

DURBIN FAVORS TARIFF BOARD

Former Governor Talks of Need for Sensible Adjustments.

TAFT "MEANS BUSINESS"

Interesting Statement Calls For Both Public and Private Thrift Among People.

Indiana Republicans always are interested in Col. W. T. Durbin's views of public affairs. He is sane, just and conservative. His judgment in politics and in business is almost invariably good. When he speaks he gains a quick and respectful hearing. When he writes he never fails to make clear just what he means. He is entitled, for many good reasons, to be given thoughtful consideration by all Republicans. Col. Durbin's most recent public statement proves that he is standing on the Indiana Republican platform, and that he is ready to do his part in proving to the voters the wisdom of progressive policies demanded by the Republican party.

Of the tariff commission idea, which is given prominent place in the Indiana platform, Col. Durbin says:

"I am heartily in favor of a tariff commission. I regard that as a sensible, business way of getting at results that will be fairest to everybody. There is a way of making tariff schedules equitable, and that is by the information gathered by a tariff commission, or its substitute, the tariff board, for which $250,000 was appropriated at the recent session of congress.

"Backed by President Taft, who means business, and by the ample funds provided, this board, I believe, will exert great influence for good in future tariff making."

Ex-Governor Durbin's rallying cry for business administration, and his sensible demand for personal and public economy, have met with ready response in Indiana, among all classes. It is encouraging to Republicans to know that Col. Durbin is to take his usual active interest in the campaign.

COL. DURBIN'S VIEWS TERSELY PUT.

I am only an old-fashioned Republican, and I'm going to say what I think.

People are living high. They don't watch the corners.

The cause of a great deal of complaint over the country is extravagance.

The most necessary reform in Indiana is a reduction of taxes.

In the national government extravagance reaches its full fruition.

Office holders are eternally trying to further their own interests at the sacrifice of economy.

The people are to blame. If they want economy in public affairs they can get it.

When an industry is stimulated to a certain point by a protective tariff it is time to ease off.

Without the tariff we should have had no tin-plate industry. But now it is time to ease off.

I am heartily in favor of a tariff commission.

I have great faith in the tariff board and believe that its creation makes a long step forward in tariff legislation.—Col. W. T. Durbin, in a statement given to the Indianapolis Star, July 24, 1910.

The Republican auditor of State found $108,000 worth of railroad trucking inside the grounds of a steel plant at Gary the other day, and the whole business went on the tax duplicate. It was the same Republican administration of affairs that discovered some 68 miles of new trackage in Indianapolis sometime ago and listed it for taxes.

The hay fever season is on and those who are victims to this distressing ailment, are sneezing and crying hot, bitter tears. Those who have means "hike" to the Northern parts of Michigan where the atmosphere is so they can live in comfort, and those less fortunate will remain here and make the best of a bad bargain which fate has handed them.

Uncle Joe Cannon is a doughty old fighter. He does not regret any political stand he has taken, neither will he attempt to change opinions of some politicians by adopting a new political course. He says:

"The legislation enacted and the record made by the Republican party during the years I have been Speaker speaks for itself. I have contributed what I could toward the enactment of that legislation. I have no apology to make for the part I have taken in the legislative councils of the nation."

Oscar Bland, candidate on the Republican ticket for congress in the Second district, says: "I have been over the district and through the country many times in other campaigns, but I never saw things looking more favorable for a Republican victory. Everybody seems to be in line and ready to work. The talk about the large importance of winning this fall seems to have awakened the party to a greater extent than ever before. With the interest the members of the party are taking I look to see a big majority rolled up."

It should please W. J. Bryan to know that Democratic papers in Indiana have been running a spiteful cartoon in recent days showing Mr. Bryan decamping from Nebraska for Texas following his overthrow by the Nebraska special interests and bosses. The anti-Bryan cartoon is understood to have been sent out by Steve Fleming's publicity bureau in Indianapolis. It appeared in J. Oscar Henderson's Kokomo Dispatch, the Democratic Linton Call, and in other Democratic papers which habitually give space to the bureau matter provided by Mr. Fleming.

The recent session at Washington, D. C. of the International Esperanto Congress, receives very little publicity in the metropolitan journals, but a newspaper article under the heading "Why Esperanto Will Fail," says: "Esperanto is an exercise. It did not grow up through the centuries as the mother tongue of any race of people. It has no history and is not dear to humanity by old association, but more important than all, it has no literature."

The writer of this article has a misconception of the function and purpose of this new and easily learned language. It is not to be a mother tongue, nor is it the intention to displace with it the mother tongue of any nation. It is to be an auxiliary language, a medium of communication between peoples of different languages. Esperanto can be easily learned—in a few months—and thus the language is more practical for international communication than any other tongue. It is to be an international "business convenience," the same as stenography and typewriting has been introduced as business conveniences.

Esperanto is making great progress in Europe, where peoples of different languages live in closer proximity, and therefore sooner see the need of an international language.

The South Bend Times talks interestingly of a proposition that has excited a great deal of newspaper discussion of late. It says:

"The method proposed by Governor Hadley of Missouri for giving people an opportunity to become the owners of a farm on which they can give their families a wholesome life was set forth in an article re-published in the Times. It is along lines which this paper has often suggested. It embodies the colony provision, the expert supervision, and the credit system—three things quite essential for one starting out with no capital except a willingness to work.

"The details of the plans have evidently been wrought out with much careful thought. The thirty-two families occupying two square miles of land, which will constitute a colony under an expert farmer will also form an excellent educational and social unit. They will make a good school district—and the school house may form a fine social center.

"There is every reason to hope that the plan will succeed. There are several men in South Bend whose financial ability and broad public spirit ought to make them stockholders in the company."

It is possible, however that, the Times is mistaken as to just how much benefit may be derived from this plan. It is a plan that probably will have to be tested to be appreciated. Anybody will not make a farmer in this day and age any more than a man with poor vision or nervous tendencies would make a good bookkeeper. Farming requires certain physical and mental qualities.

There may be two sides to every story but only one can be right or both sides are wrong.

Don't criticise yourself because you can't please everybody, because the world is full of knockers, and chronic critics—that is critics who think that criticism consists only in seeing the bad.

BY THE WAYSIDE

Confidentially, we don't believe it. A German, a Frenchman, and an American were shipwrecked, and cast upon an island inhabited by semi-savages. The chief potentate informed the involuntary visitors that the post of Lord High Execution was vacant and would be awarded to that one who could fill it with most credit. Three condemned men were brought forth for the trials.

The German stepped forward, and swung the great two-handled sword, and performed the decapitation with considerable success, although he required two strokes in which to hack off the victim's head.

The Frenchmen took his position and, with debonair grace despatched his victim with one stroke

The American went to bat. After gently feeling the edge of the big sword he drew it back, held it, poised an instant, and—swish—a flash, a hiss, and that was all. The Yankee wiped the sword and stepped back.

"Go ahead," said the condemned man. "This suspense is terrible."

"Cough!" commanded the American. The criminal coughed—and his head rolled to the ground.

WHICH WILL MAKE STOP HERE

Train Has Already Been Started and is Attracting Large Crowds at Every Town.

Reports received from the wheat improvement special train operated over the Pennsylvania lines under the auspices of agricultural experts connected with the Purdue experiment station, are encouraging. Farmers of northern Indiana are taking much interest in the course and at each station a large crowd greets the instructors.

The train is composed of one baggage car, two coaches and one private car. The coaches are used as lecture rooms and here the farmers sit and listen to the lectures, which are graphically illustrated by means of charts showing the results of experiments performed on the Purdue experiment station farm and at other points in the state. At the end of each lecture bulletins telling the story of wheat improvement in a detailed form are given to all who meet the train.

The train is in charge of Professor G. I. Christie, superintendent of agricultural extension, Purdue experiment station, and the lecturers are Professor M. L. Fisher, associate in agronomy; C. O. Cromer, assistant in agronomy; J. B. Abbott, assistant in soils improvement; A. G. Johnson, assistant in agricultural extension; J. P. Prigg, president Indiana Corn Growers' Association, Daleville; S. W. Taylor, Booneville; W. M. Vaughn, assistant in agricultural extension, and V. C. Plummer, assistant in agricultural extension.

This train will be in this city next Tuesday.

Blue Jay Stole Straw Hat

An unusual theft was committed the other afternoon at the picnic ground at Tecumseh trail near La Fayette. Mr. Frank Morris and Mrs. John Thompson, of Lebanon, with Mrs. Morris's two sons, age eight and eleven, were seated at a table on a bluff overlooking the Wabash river during their luncheon, when a large bluejay darted down from a sycamore tree nearby and seizing a straw hat from the older boy's head, flew away with it. The members of the party were so bewildered they scarcely knew what had happened. A few minutes before the hat was taken a bluejay had swooped down from a tree and stolen a piece of pie from the table.

The lad's hat was a large one and weighed almost as much as the bird that carried it away.

The bluejays at the trail and at the Soldiers' home at the top of the hill are unusually bold this year. The old soldiers and widows feed peanuts to the pet squirrels about the grounds and the bluejays, from their lofty perches in the oak trees, dart down to the ground and take the nuts away from the squirrels. Sometimes the squirrels, when they have eaten all the peanuts they desire will bury them in the ground. The bluejays will carefully watch the operation and then fly down scratch up the earth and carry away the peanuts. The picnic party yesterday watched the bluejay fly away with the hat and as it soared aloft another bird, evidently an accomplice, met it and they flew away together. Persons who doubt the truth of the story may obtain affidavits from those who witnessed the incident.

Morgan Raider's Reunion

A reunion of the survivors of the famous Morgan's men will be held on Park Hill, in Nicholas county, Ky., this month. This division was made up of the most daring and youngest men of the Southern army and it was greatly dreaded in war times for its sudden and irresistible attacks.

Between 200 and 250 men will probably attend the reunion, although there are probably 700 of Morgan's men still scattered throughout the country. Older residents remember the alarm caused by Morgan's raid in southern Indiana and the rushing of soldiers to southern parts to head off the invaders.

Corn Will Be King

While the Wall street operators have been moaning over the stagnation of the stock market and the poor outlook for industry as measured by the dividends of railroads the farmers have been planting, cultivating and harvesting corn. Their labors, seconded by nature, are giving the country the largest corn crop in its history. That is the answer of the men of action to the men of words and speculation.

The most inveterate of croakers must be hushed when he contemplates a promised national output of 2,940,000,000 bushels of corn and 1,022,000,000 bushels of oats. The wheat crop may not be quite up to the mark, and that of hay may fall short, but the promised yield of corn and oats is such as to put to flight all fears of a slacking of industry and a decline in prosperity.

Now we can be reasonably certain that the wheels will continue to go round, not merely those of the freight cars which will have to move these billions of bushels of cereal products, but the wheels of all industries. Nothing has so stimulating an influence on production and consumption as bounteous harvests. Therefore it is to the widespread farms rather than to the narrow confines of a stock exchange that we must turn for information as to the condition and prospects of the country.

At this time the prospect pleases. There has been too much rain in some parts of the country and too little in others, but in spite of these drawbacks we are pulling through safely.

There will be freight for the railroads, but the interstate commerce commission shall determine what they shall get for carrying it. Whatever its determination may be, the country is safe for another year. We have weathered most of the perils of the crop season and can begin to figure up our profits.

They are Grouch Germs

A new germ, as yet unnamed has just been discovered in Kansas City. It is a hot weather bacillus and effects old and young alike, being particularly noxious in adults, it is said, and producing a chronic case of what ordinarily is called the "grouch." The discoverers of this germ are Dr. R. L. Marchias, chief probation officer, and his assistants, who constantly are making a study of this particular bug is one which attacks human nature only.

"It is a hot weather bug" said Dr. Mathias "and can produce the worst case of grouch in a short time that you ever saw." "Doncherknow" or other, this hot weather seems to 'peev' everybody. It takes the form of grouch in adults and the form of what the grown-ups are pleased to call "devilment" in children.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace management will offer a strong program tonight in the film, "The Perversity of Fate." It is a Kalem drama, telling a story of the Canadian woods, which is intensely human. A young woman, who cares for her aged mother is in the employ of a wealthy man. The young man to whom she is engaged goes to Canada to earn out his fortune. Her mother's health fails and she marries her employer in order to get money to care for her invalid mother. She is finally left a widow with a comfortable income and goes to Canada to seek out her lover. In the meantime he has married an Indian squaw, hearing how his betrothed had done. The climax to the tale is very startling. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Star Grand offers tonight a drama written by Roy Norton and played by the Edison company entitled "His New Family." Mr. Norton's artistic blending of comedy, pathos and heart interest are wonderfully brought out by the Edison players. And the picture is one which produces the smile and the tear, hearty laughter and a realization of the noblest virtue of the human heart. The film ranks among the best of the Edison company's pictures. Earl Robertson will sing "Give my Regards to Mabel." Madam Holden and H. C. Owsley will sing new songs tonight.

The Vaudet theater will offer a good program for tonight in the subject, "The Little Peace Maker." It is a drama of great interest with a story that is intensely interesting. The tale is taken from real life and is so human that it seems realistic. A new illustrated song will be sung.

She eyed him earnestly. "If you say that, Bob, I must believe you. And, of course, I'll help all I can."

Orme sighed his relief. "Thanks," he said.

She flashed a speculative glance at him.

"I'm sorry," he said, "that I can't tell you what it's all about. You'll just have to take my word for it."

"Have I asked you to tell me?"

"No, you marvel of womanhood. You are dying of curiosity, I don't doubt, but your restraint is superhuman."

Again she looked at him keenly. "Bob, you are dying of curiosity yourself. Don't you suppose I can see?"

"It's something harder than curiosity," said Orme simply.

"How eager are you?" She laughed. "Now, there is plenty of time. The trip won't take us more than half an hour; so come along and meet some friends of mine."

"Bessie—if you could hurry—"

"We can't start until the car comes. I'm expecting it any moment. So be good, and come along. There's such an interesting man—and very distinguished. We don't try to pronounce his name. Just think, he was engaged for dinner here, also, and came too late. And ever since he arrived he's been called to the telephone at five-minute intervals. So exciting! Nobody can guess what he's so busy about."

She threaded her way through the lively groups on the veranda, and reluctantly he followed. The voice which he had so nearly recognized sounded closer, then stopped with a curious little laugh that was loudly echoed by others.

Bessie broke in upon the lull that followed. "Excellency, may I present another man who missed his dinner?" she said saucily. "Mr. Orme."

The man addressed was sitting comfortably in a wicker chair that was several sizes too large for him. At the mention of Orme's name he got to his feet with startling alacrity.

"Mr.—Orme?" His surprise was unmistakable.

"Mr. Robert Orme," said Bessie.

Some one struck a match to light a cigar, and in the sudden light Orme found himself looking into the face of the Japanese minister.

"I think I have never met you before," said the minister slowly.

"I think not," replied Orme.

He was much disquieted by the encounter. Now he understood that Arima had been bound for this very place.

If only he had refused to let Bessie drag him into her circle! The minister would not have known his face, but the mention of his name gave full enlightenment.

The minister resumed his seat, and a chair was brought for Orme. There were other introductions.

A woman's voice renewed the conversation. "Excellency, won't you tell us another of your very interesting stories?"

The minister turned to her. "I will tell you one," he said, "that you will not find in the literature of my country. It is a story of the secret service, and it came to me through my personal acquaintance with some of the participants."

"Oh, that will be splendid!" exclaimed the woman.

The minister waited for a moment. He turned his face toward Orme, and asked politely: "You will not mind listening to what I have to say, Mr. Orme?"

"Why, to be sure not," replied Orme, wondering.

"My stories are not always short," continued the minister, "as the others already know. But they sometimes hold meanings which, in my country, at least, would be perfectly plain."

After this odd bit of by-play, he began his narrative:

"There was a man who lived in the city of Takamatsu, on the island of Shikoku. His name was Kimaga, and he was much respected by all who knew him, for he was painstakingly devoted to his aged and most honorable parents. By trade he was a maker of vases—a what you call him—a potter."

"One day while Kimaga was walking upon the road, he saw before him on the ground a letter. He picked it up. It was sealed, but he discovered upon the outside a curious writing which he could not make out. In fact, Kimaga could not read at all. He was very poorly educated."

"But Kimaga was charm by the grace and beauty of the writing. Though he could not read it, it fascinated his eyes. He decided to keep it, making no attempt to find the rightful owner. You must know that in Nippon beauty is worship by the humblest workman."

"It happened that the letter had been written by a Chinese spy, and it contained a report concerning our fortifications. Now there is in Nippon a very secret service. It is not responsible to the government. It is composed of nobles who for many and many a generation have bound themselves by a strong oath to do patriotic service which the government itself might be too embarrassed to undertake. If they are obliged to use extreme measures, and are arrested because of what they have done, they calmly accept the punishment of the law without explaining their actions. Sons of noble houses have been executed for assassinating secret enemies of Nippon, and they have met this fate as their oath demanded."

"Members of this secret service knew about this letter of the Chinese spy. They knew, also, that it had been lost, and before long they learned that Kimaga had picked it up. How they learned all this does not matter. But they also knew that the relations between Nippon and China at the time were of such a strain that their government, not wishing to give cause of war, would hesitate to punish the Chinese spy."

"In the meantime Kimaga had become so enamored of the letter that he could not bear to let it go out of his possession. When he was alone he would feast his eyes upon the beautiful writing. But it was not long before he discovered that men were watching him, and he became filled with fear. Why should he be watched? Had he done a guilty thing?"

"So greatly did the fear swell in him that he decided to take the letter back to the place where he had found it, and drop it again in the road. But when he got to the place and looked for a last time at the writing, it gave him such longing to keep it that he thrust it into his breast again and hurried back to his shop."

"That night a man came to see Kimaga."

"Are you Kimaga, the maker of vases?" he said.

"Kimaga, all trembling, replied that he was."

"Then," said the man, "I have come to you with high purpose. You have a letter which does not belong to you. Give it to me."

"Does it belong to you?" asked Kimaga, his desire putting armor on his fear.

"That is not to be asked," replied the man. "I am samurai. For the glory of Nippon you must give me the letter."

"But Kimaga did not wish to let the letter go. 'How do you know that I have it?' he said. 'You have not seen it.'"

"It is enough that I know," said the man. "Three days I allow you. If by then the letter has not been placed on the altar of the war-god, in the shrine of Samiya, then you will be assassinated."

"With that the man went away."

"Kimaga was now almost dead with fright. For the first day he did nothing but weep. The second day he put on mourning and set his affairs in order. The third day he held the letter in his hand for many hours and filled his mind with the beauty of the writing. He could not give it up. Rather would he die. And at last he placed it in a lacquer box and buried it deep at the foot of the largest cherry tree in his garden."

"He arose to go back into his house, and his head was bowed over with terror. You see, he felt that many eyes were watching him from the near-by walls, and he thought he heard breathings and the whispers of strangers. What should he do now? He dare not advance; he dare not stay where he was. So exceeding frightened was he that he groaned aloud. From all about him came groans that answered his. Once more he groaned, and once more his ears were filled with the answers."

"Then he took one step toward his house. Nothing happened. He took another step, and his knees they shook."

IT'S ALWAYS BAD

The Best of Backs Are Bad When They Ache, and Rushville People Know It.

A bad back is always bad. Bad at night when bedtime comes, Just as bad in the morning.

Ever try Doan's Kidney Pills for it?

Know they cure backache—cure every kidney ill?

If you don't, some Rushville people do.

Read a case of it:

George Priest, 223 West Third Street, Rushville, Ind., says: "I was bothered by attacks of kidney trouble for several years and as time passed my condition became worse. There was a dull pain directly over my kidneys and I had spells of dizziness and weakness. My sight often became blurred and I knew that something must be done. Three years ago Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention and were so highly recommended that I got a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s Drug Store. They proved to be the best kidney medicine I had ever taken and in a short time had entirely relieved me. On several occasions during the past three years I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and they have always given entire satisfaction."

"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet, suffered intense pains. Have had the assistance of physicians without relief. AN EASY AND HARMLESS WAY TO DARKEN THE HAIR.

Who does not know of the value of sage and sulphur for keeping the hair dark, soft, glossy and in good condition? As a matter of fact, sulphur is a natural element of hair, and a deficiency of it in the hair is held by many scalp specialists to be connected with loss of color and vitality of the hair. Unquestionably, there is no better remedy for hair and scalp troubles, especially premature grayness, than sage and sulphur, if properly prepared. The Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, put up an ideal preparation of this kind, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. It is sold by all leading druggists for 50c. and $1.00 a bottle, or is sent direct by the manufacturers upon receipt of price.

For sale and recommended by Hargrove & Mullin.

like the palsy. The breathings and whisperings seem, oh, so much nearer now. But he must all his strength and put out his foot for the third step. It did not reach the ground before the vengeance struck him.

"The next morning his wife found him dead. His head had been severed from his body."

The minister stopped and sat back in his chair.

"How awful!" exclaimed the woman who had asked for a story.

"Not so," said the minister affably. "In serving my country, such things must be done. Kimaga should have given the letter. Don't you think so, Mr. Orme?"

The parable was quite clear to Orme. He understood the threat.

"In America," he said, drily, "we do not worship penmanship."

"But an American might for other reasons keep a letter that did not belong to him."

"Not if he was honorable. His natural course would be to see that it was delivered to the person for whom it was intended. Certainly he would not give it to any man who could not prove his right to it."

"Would he not? But if he were told that he must die—?"

"In that case he would inform his friends of the threats against him, and they would see that his murderers were hanged. Assassination is not popular in America, excellency."

Orme did not attempt to conceal the contempt in his words, and several of the listeners moved in their chairs, betraying their embarrassment.

"Perhaps, then, Mr. Orme," said the minister, "you could favor us with a story which would show the attitude of an American in such a fair."

Orme laughed. "Oddly enough," he replied, "I can give you just such a story—if you all care to hear it."

"Go on," murmured one of the men. "It happened to a friend of mine," said Orme. "He had in his possession a number of proxies, the use of which would determine the control of a certain corporation. While he was carrying these proxies to the country house of the man to whom he was to deliver them, he was attacked by a man who was acting for another faction. This man secured the advantage over my friend and, robbing him of the proxies, jumped into a waiting motor car to make his escape."

"And did he escape?" the minister interrupted.

"He thought himself safe," continued Orme, "but my friend had caught the back of the motor car just as it started. He climbed silently into the tonneau, and throwing his arm around the neck of the thief, pulled him backward from his seat.

"The car was ditched, and my friend and the thief were both thrown out."

"What Happened Then?" inquired the Minister.

My friend was not hurt. The thief, however, had his leg broken."

"What happened then?" inquired the minister; for Orme had paused.

"Oh, my friend took the proxies from the thief's pocket and walked away. He stopped at the nearest farmhouse and sent help back."

REGGIE VANDERBILT

His Illness Cuts Into Program of the New York Horse Show.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 26.—Reginald C. Vanderbilt has a slight attack of typhoid fever. On account of his illness the horse-show dinner which has been given by Mr. Vanderbilt for a number of years has been cancelled and in all probability he will be prevented from taking part as an exhibitor in the show.

THE WOMEN WOULD FORCE ARBITRATION

One Way of Compelling Settlement of Big Strike.

Cincinnati, Aug. 26.—The Susan B. Anthony club, one of the largest and most prominent of the women's clubs in this city, unanimously adopted the following resolutions and forwarded them to Columbus:

"Whereas, the taxpayers of Ohio are being robbed by keeping the militia in Columbus to protect the private property of a traction company that will not arbitrate with the strikers, and

"Whereas, this traction company is arbitrarily holding out against the strikers, who have the sympathy of all, and the police, and

"Whereas, Ohio women are taxed but allowed no voice in public expenditures, be it

"Resolved, That we, members of the Susan B. Anthony club, do protest against the useless expense and demand that said traction company be required to arbitrate with the strikers within three days or lose the protection of the state, and further be it

"Resolved, That the company be charged with the whole expense of the militia and required to reimburse the state for its protection or lose its franchise and turn over its property to the municipality to be held and operated by the city of Columbus till such restitution is made to the taxpayers of the state."

CALLS RUMOR "ROT"

W. B. McKinley Says Illinois System Has No Indiana Designs.

Champaign, Ill., Aug. 26.—"Absolute rot" is the term that William B. McKinley of Champaign, president of the Illinois traction system, applies to the reports circulated in Indiana that his company was soon to enter the Indiana field and construct a line from Danville, Ill., to Crawfordsville, Ind. This line, it has been claimed, would connect the Ben Hur system with the McKinley route at Crawfordsville, thus giving the mammoth Illinois interests an entry into Indianapolis. The reports further had it that the Illinois traction system would take up the route abandoned by the Kingman interests. Mr. McKinley said:

"We considered constructing a line in Indiana about two years ago, but the Indiana companies asked us not to, so we gave up the idea. Whenever they want to connect up at the state line we will be ready."

Committee Names Successor.

Indianapolis, Aug. 26.—The Democratic state central committee has named Charles A. Greathouse of Indianapolis to succeed Robert J. Alea as a candidate for superintendent of public instruction, Mr. Alea having resigned to take the presidency of the University of Maine. Mr. Greathouse was a candidate for this office in 1902.

Conservation of Coal Land.

HE WAS GOING TO TAKE IT TO TAFT

Indiana Attorney General Created
Stir at Washington.

COURT ORDERED GAG REMOVED

Finding Dr. Wiley's Lips Sealed by Departmental Order, Attorney General Bingham Went Higher Up and Dr. Wiley Was Unmuzzled Long Enough to Deliver Some Hot Shot Against the Use of Benzoate of Soda.

Washington, Aug. 26.—The threat of Attorney General Bingham of Indiana to take to President Taft the charge of favoritism on the part of the department of agriculture toward benzoate of soda and the manufacturers using the drug as a food preservative has caused something of a sensation here, and the friends of pure food are encouraged by the action of the district courts in removing the gag which had been placed on Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, the pure food champion. Attorney General Bingham charges that not only did the department permit, but even "requested" the members of the Remsen board which decided against Dr. Wiley's views, to testify in behalf of the Curtice Bros., of Rochester, and the Williams Bros., company of Detroit, in the suit brought by them in the federal court to have the Indiana pure food law declared unconstitutional; while it forbade Dr. Wiley to testify unless ordered by the District of Columbia courts. This compelled the Indiana attorney general to come to Washington to secure an order from the court and take the testimony here instead of in Indianapolis. He also claims he was at first refused certain original documents necessary to his case, the same being in the department of agriculture and being public records. Attorney General Bingham secured the order from Justice Barnard and Dr. Wiley testified, and, as was expected, his testimony was adverse to the benzoate of soda cause. It is the first time that Dr. Wiley has been permitted to speak in public in defense of his attitude against this preservative since Secretary Wilson determined to stand by the report of the Remsen board and the ketchup manufacturers who use benzoate of soda. The gag was administered to him and it was not removed until the court so ordered.

The friends of pure food are elated that by the order of the court Dr. Wiley was unmuzzled long enough to deliver some hot shot against the benzoate of soda users, and are confident that the Indiana courts will sustain the constitutionality of the law, and that the effort to force artificially preserved foods upon that state will fail. Food Commissioner Barnard of Indiana has long been known as an advanced advocate of pure food, and with Attorney General Bingham has fought the case at issue all over the country.

CUTTING DOWN EXPENSES

United Miners Recognize the Need of Retrenchment.

Indianapolis, Aug. 26.—Many of the organizers salaried for years by the United Mine Workers have been notified of their discharge and have been informed that they will not be reimbursed till the organization is in better financial condition. The board went over many items of interest and ordered deep cuts in all of them. Members of the board say they will have to retrench, as it is impossible to say how long present conditions will continue. Reports here from many locals indicate that there is much opposition to the dollar-a-week assessment, and it is believed that some locals will refuse to pay it, and the question will be presented of withdrawing their charters, this being the penalty for refusing to pay assessments.

JOY RIDERS PLUNGE DOWN EMBANKMENT

Death Overtakes Man Who Gave the Auto Party.

Scranton, Pa., Aug. 26.—Five persons were injured, one of them fatally, while returning from a joy ride. The auto containing the party became unmanageable and plunged down a twenty-foot embankment, landing on a pile of rocks. The party had been to a roadhouse for dinner.

J. D. Simpson, aged thirty-eight, a freight official of the Laurel line, the man who gave the dinner, was caught under the auto and his skull crushed. He died at the state hospital. Roy A. Huntsinger, the chauffeur, with marvelous luck, escaped with a few bruises. The other three were girls. Goldie Arrow, aged thirty, was cut and bruised about the head, face and body. She is in a critical condition. Alice Smith, aged twenty-three, was cut and bruised about the body. Sadie Hall was badly cut about the left leg and bruised about the body. Simpson was married.

DEATH TO DOGS

South Bend Police Go Hunting and Get a Wagon Load.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 26.—A wagon-load of unmuzzled dogs was killed by the police. Alarmed by the number of cases of hydrophobia here, two of which resulted fatally, Mayor Charles L. Goetz issued instructions that all unmuzzled dogs found running at large be shot. In obedience to the order three policemen started out in a patrol wagon armed with Winchester rifles. When they returned the wagon was full. The officers said they could have killed more had the wagon been larger.

Dynamiters Attack Judge.

BANKERS FEEL WHEAT MONEY

The "Wheat Money," as the Bankers Term it, is Now Making its Appearance

THE BUSHELAGE WAS LARGE

"Wheat Crop is Nice One to Handle in Financial Way," Comments Local Banker.

The Indiana wheat crop this year, basing the surmise on the statement of a prominent elevator man of this city, will range from 37,000,000 to 45,000,000 bushels, or several millions of bushels over and above the yield of last year. The "wheat money" as bankers term it, is now making its appearance and local banking houses state that practically every provincial bank in Indiana has brought up its balance. There has been a disposition on the part of some of the farmers to hold their wheat because of the crowded condition of the elevators, and prices on wagon wheat has also been under what it was a year ago this month. Last year rains prevented early threshing, but this year the crop was handled more expeditiously and the result is that from sales already made and those going on now, with the movement of the crop, hundreds of thousands of dollars are placed in circulation in the State of Indiana.

"The wheat crop is the nicest one to handle in a financial way," commented a banker of this city, "because the money is always more apportioned it seems. It has a fixed value and the big movement of the crop results in an extensive circulation of money. The country banks have all brought up their balances as a result of the wheat crop and while some of the farmers are holding back for better prices, the tone of the situation, is firmer than that of last year."

HE BURNED UP POOR DEAD HOG

Friends of John H. Frazee Tell a Story on Him Whenever Opportunity Avails Itself.

CAUSED HIS OWN MISFORTUNE

An extremely funny story about John H. Frazee has been going the rounds and his friends generally recite it over and over whenever opportunity avails itself. He went to his farm—he has always been a farmer—one day recently and was walking around seeing that everything was running in perfect order. Finally he espied a dead hog, a real, big, fat hog, the kind that can be sold without any murmuring. He thought it rather strange that he had not been told of the porker's demise, but that question did not bother him then.

He felt that it would be very unsanitary for that dead animal to lay there and rot away, and to him burning seemed to be the most logical way to rid the farm of the carcass. Acting accordingly, he threw several old limbs on the big pile of fat and started a fire. The blaze was roaring gloriously when Mr. Frazee felt that he heard something familiar. Yes, it was true, that was the squeal of a hog which he heard and soon a burning, living hunk of pork rushed out from under that brush pile which had been set afire. All efforts to save the animal failed and it was finally killed. Loss eighteen dollars.

CHOOSE OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

Kirkpatrick, Williams and Norris Families Enjoy Pleasant Day at Rush County Fair Grounds.

MANY GUESTS FROM DISTANCE

Musical Program Given by Norrises Was a Delightful Feature—Mrs. Bell's Solo Appreciated.

The fair ground was a busy place yesterday, when three family reunions were held there. The Norrises, Kirkpatrick and the Williams all gathered to do honor to their ancestors and to assist in perpetuating the name of the family. All of the families elected new officers for the ensuing year and made their organization more perfect.

The members of the Norris family were very thick on the fair ground, even though the weather was decidedly against any outdoor meetings. The musical program was carried out as planned and served as a very pleasing innovation for such events. The solo work of Mrs. Lotta Bell of Huntington, West Virginia, was one of the most delightful features on the program. A letter from Edwin Norris, Governor of Montana, who was invited but found it impossible to attend, was read as was also a communication from Mrs. W. E. Ochiltree of Connersville who was unable to be present.

The following officers were elected: W. A. Norris, of Noble township; president; Will Norris, of Delphi, vice-president; Mrs. Jacob Parrish, secretary; and Densy Norris, treasurer, statistician; Mrs. C. H. Gilbert, Mrs. W. E. Ochiltree, historian. Among the guests from a distance were: Mrs. Lotta Bell and daughter, of Huntington, West Virginia; Mrs. Dr. Sanitor, Brooklyn, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kitchen, of Corydon, Ind.

About two hundred members of the Kirkpatrick families were present yesterday for the annual affair, many coming from a distance.

Among the visitors were: Judge Lee Kirkpatrick and wife, of Kokomo; Steven Kirkpatrick and wife of Missouri; Dr. Allen Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Reeves, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Kirkpatrick of Indianapolis.

The following officers were chosen for the ensuing year: Jesse Kirkpatrick, president; Jesse Kirkpatrick, vice-president; and W. T. McBride, secretary and treasurer.

The members of the Williams enjoyed a very pleasant day in their annual gathering. A number of guests from a distance were present and all enjoyed the big basket dinner which was served at the noon hour.

—Miss Clara Redden visited her friend, Miss Ray Trennepole, near Knightstown last week.

The reunion of the survivors of the Nineteenth Indiana regiment will be held at Cambridge City, October fifth.

Chicken Lice

We don't claim to have the only powder for chicken lice, but we do give you one that is fresher than you can buy. Why?

Because we make ours fresh every week, keep it in an air tight tin container and give you two pounds for the price of a single pound. For this reason we claim it will work better than any other.

Try it once and use it always.
